New Business

Incentive Zoning

Staff presented a request for $75,000 of non-CPA funds for a study to examine the relationship between new commercial development and housing costs. An RFP would be issued for a consultant to undertake a study that would make recommendations on updates to the current Incentive Zoning Ordinance including updating the housing contribution rate needed to mitigate the impact on affordability for low and moderate-income households; review of special permits that currently do not trigger incentive zoning requirements; and an assessment of the impact of the new development on affordability for middle-income households. Since the adoption of the Incentive Zoning Ordinance, new special permits have been added to the Zoning Ordinance which are not included in the Incentive Zoning Ordinance.

There is an interest in examining this issue again given changes in the housing market. The new study would be expected to be complete in 2014. Recommendations would inform discussions about amendments to the Incentive Ordinance and would be presented to the City Council.

Upon a motion moved and seconded, it was:

VOTED: to approve the request of up to $75,000 for use in completing a new nexus study for the Incentive Zoning Ordinance and to undertake a new study and develop any recommendations into a zoning petition for consideration.

Other Updates

There has been a roundtable discussion scheduled with the Trust and City Council in December. This will be discussed further at an upcoming meeting.
