NEW BUSINESS

1648 & 1654 Massachusetts Avenue Rent Change Request

Mr. Cotter presented a request from the Cambridge Housing Authority (CHA) to temporarily change the rent-setting approach at their recently acquired property at 1648 & 1654 Massachusetts Avenue. The Trust provided $18,565,000 to assist with the acquisition and conversion of market-rate units into affordable units upon turnover. It was anticipated that in five years, the CHA would complete a tax syndication process that would finance a full rehabilitation of the two buildings.

Since the CHA acquired the properties in May 2026, they have reported challenges with leasing up the units that turned over, including low number of applicants despite marketing and confusion among prospective applicants over income-based rents. As a result, the CHA is requesting that the Trust allow them to temporarily lease the units using a flat rate methodology until the tax credit syndication occurs, instead of setting the rents to 30% of a household's income as approved by the Trust in June 2026. CHA has requested that rents be set at 30% of 65% Area Median Income (AMI) for all income-eligible households.

In response to a question regarding whether the rents will increase annually, Mr. Cotter responded that because the rent is based on the HUD income limits, which are updated every year, they will increase based on those changes.

Ms. Schlesinger expressed concerns about this proposal as the CHA initially provided reassurance that they would be able to attract voucher holders to the site.

In response to a question regarding whether lower-income households will benefit from this proposal, staff noted that CHA's requested change would expand eligibility to households below 70% AMI and make the rents even more affordable to households earning incomes above 65% AMI and up to 100% AMI. Staff noted that some lower income households that do not have a voucher may end up paying more than 30% of their income towards rent. This proposed flat rent may be more attractive to those making more income as they would be paying less than 30% of their income towards rent.

In response to a question regarding why paying 30% of a household's income is less attractive than paying a flat rent, Mr. Cotter replied that those making between 80% and 100% AMI may have more housing options where they can pay less than 30% of income for housing and may choose those over housing where rent is set at 30% of income.

In response to a question regarding the transition of the tax credit syndication and what will happen with the existing residents, staff explained that this project is expected to be refinanced in five years with Low-Income Housing Tax Credits (LIHTC) that would support full rehabilitation. At that time, the CHA plans to use project-based vouchers, which will allow the units to remain affordable.

In response to a question regarding what the current affordability restriction states, Ms. Arnaud explained that it restricts at least 80% of the units to households at or below 80% AMI and the remaining 20% of the units may be leased up to households making up to 100% AMI.

Mr. Stockard noted that it is important that staff monitor the status of this building, including how the income mix of the building changes based on the approach to setting rents. Staff noted that the CHA is planning on doing a larger marketing of the buildings in 2027. Staff will bring an update to the Trust on the results of that marketing.

In response to a question about what happens to the residents who choose not to income verify, Mr. Cotter explained that they will continue to pay market rate. Once the unit is leased up to a low-income household, the rent will be set at the flat rent.

In response to questions regarding what other CHA projects are seeking tax credits and how this project can be more competitive compared to new construction projects, staff noted that the second phase of Corcoran Park will apply for tax credits in the near future and that these buildings may be eligible for historic tax credits that new construction projects would not have access to.

Chair Huang also expressed support for this proposal and noted that there is an urgency to approve a solution to resolve the issue of the vacancy at the properties as they transition. The longer that it takes to vote on the proposed changes, the more complex the situation becomes. He commented that this is a trade-off between wanting to make the numbers work while trying to make the properties affordable.

Upon a motion moved, seconded, and approved by roll call of five in favor, one present (Ms. Thorne), two abstaining (Ms. Cardosi and Ms. DeRosa), and one absent (Ms. Stein), it was:

VOTED: to approve the CHA's temporary waiver to set flat rents at 1648 & 1654 Massachusetts Avenue, with the additional requirement that the temporary waiver be limited to the earlier of five years from acquisition or closing on the planned tax credit funding, and as further described in more detail in the attached materials.
