DR. LISA GRANT

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, CAMBRIDGE OFFICE OF EARLY CHILDHOOD

A LETTER FROM OUR EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Dear Cambridge Early Childhood Community,

Happy almost summer! June brings a whole host of things to celebrate... the end of a school year, warmer weather, and all of the special ways (big and small) to enjoy each day - as you will see on page 3. We are also celebrating the official launch of The Cambridge Preschool Program \(CPP\). An official announcement was shared a few short weeks ago and is included here in the newsletter. We have also released a "frequently asked questions" document that can be found on our website. We will continue to share information about CPP on our site as it becomes available, and encourage you to bookmark the link so that you always have easy access to the latest information.

In addition to the official launch of CPP, we are celebrating the expansion of our team! I'd like to welcome our three newest team members. Megan Postal is joining us as the Director of Family and Community Engagement. She has served as a consultant to our office for the last few years and brings a wealth of knowledge and expertise in home visiting, public health, and early intervention to this brand new position. I'd also like to welcome Erin Sarpard as our new Professional Development Specialist. She has been a teacher for many years, and brings the depth of her classroom experience to this role. She will play an integral part of our expanding Workforce Development team. I'd also like to welcome Yadling Richemond as our Child Care Information Specialist. Formally a DHSP preschool teacher, Yadling will serve as the first point of contact for many of our city's families who are looking for information, access, and funding for early care and education in our community. We are so excited to continue to build our capacity to better serve children, families, and educators that are a part of our greater early childhood ecosystem.

Our newsletter will take a break over the summer, so please visit our website for the most up-to-date information on programming, professional development, and more. We will be back with new content in the new school year!

In partnership,

The OEC Team packaged over 550 Welcome Bags for all new Junior Kindergarten and Kindergarten children in Cambridge Public Schools!

Welcome Bags are one part of how the Cambridge Office of Early Childhood supports school readiness in Cambridge. To ensure that children are ready for school, families need to be supported as well. These bags include materials to help support children and their families as they make the transition into Cambridge Public Schools.

This year the bags are filled with the book This Is A School by John Schu, a resource guide for families, and many other items from our community partners!

The transition to Kindergarten is a major event in the lives of children and families. It's a pivotal point for establishing the kinds of practices that can help continue the learning children have experienced during the first 5 years of life. OEC continues to expand on school readiness work throughout the community, including the transition to Kindergarten. Readiness should not only focus on the child being ready but must include ready families, ready communities, and ready schools.

Summer is Finally Here!

Don't forget to stay hydrated, especially when summer heat sets in! Water is important for keeping our body systems working as they should. How much water we need depends on our age, weight, the temperature, humidity, how active we are, and our health conditions — the average adult female needs 9 cups of water per day while the average adult male needs 13!

Print this poster from the American Association of Pediatrics (AAP) to remember how much water our young friends need each day: English | Spanish

The best beverage for children and adults is water! We are bombarded with marketing for sugar-sweetened beverages all the time, but our bodies do not benefit from the extra sugar. Check out the AAP Healthy Beverage Quick Reference Guide for children ages birth to 18.

Tips and Resources for staying hydrated this summer:

- Cambridge tap water is a safe, inexpensive option for staying hydrated!
- Add a piece of lemon, lime, cucumber, or mint leaf to water, adding flavor but without adding calories. Check out these flavored water recipes
- An easy way to ensure you meet your water needs: check your reusable water bottle to see how much water it holds, and note how many times you need to refill in a day. Did you know that Cambridge has water bottle fillers in most parks and squares?
- Learn how to be prepared when extreme summer heat happens.
- Concerned about keeping young athletes hydrated when they are sweating a lot during intense sports? This recorded webinar from AAP is a great listen.

Contact Brigitte DeVeau, Public Health Nutritionist, at bdeveau@challiance.org with questions or interest in this or other Healthy Eating Active Living projects.

More tips for nutrition and staying active are available on the resources page at the Cambridge Public Health Department website.

HELPING CHILDREN ADAPT TO CHANGE

Spring marks a wonderful time in our work with young children. We are able to spend more time outside and witness the changing season up close! We might explore the outdoors searching for blooming flowers or plant our own seeds. A favorite activity in many classrooms across Cambridge has been observing caterpillars transform into butterflies. Before the caterpillars arrive teachers prepare children by talking about how we care for the caterpillars and keep them safe. Children delight in the process of watching small wiggly caterpillars grow, form a chrysalis and then one day all of a sudden, butterflies have emerged!

Around this time each year, some children are preparing for big transitions. They might be anticipating moving to new schools or new classrooms. Some are facing the big step into kindergarten. As changes loom, what do you notice about the children in your care? Does anything surprise you?

Some children welcome change and adapt to new situations with ease. For others, change can be a challenge. They might not yet have the skill to process and express what they're feeling. You may notice that children are more clingy than normal, display irritability and moodiness, or are withdrawn, angry, or sad. Whether children embrace change or are wary of it, we feel it is important to support children in learning: A) change happens all the time, B) how to identify ways we can recognize change and, C) through the process, perhaps even enjoy the change.

It might be helpful for teachers to remember that they have been supporting children through change all throughout their school year, in big and small ways. Think about how young the children were on their first day in your class: what tools and strategies did you use to help them feel safe and connected? How did you get your class ready for the first walk to the park or field trip?

HOW DO WE SUPPORT CHILDREN THROUGH TIMES OF CHANGE?

As we prepare children for big changes it is important for us to offer an array of experiences that meet their unique ways of processing and expressing themselves. You might address the following ideas through drawing, writing stories, conversations, acting them out, making graphs of who has experienced the changes as you brainstorm as a group, sharing with a talking stick at group time, making lists, or maybe even writing a non-rhyming poem.

DISCUSS CHANGE:

- Talk about the ways that they've changed (they used to be babies and only crawl, and now they have grown and changed)
- Notice/read about animals that grow and change (like caterpillars/butterflies, tadpole/frogs)
- Remember together when they started school and how that was new
- Notice how nature changes (ice melts, leaves change color, rain dries, etc.)
- Ask children about things that have changed for them (new sibling, relative visits, move homes, changed bedroom, etc.)

RECOGNIZE AND CELEBRATE CHANGE

- Dismiss from group times with hints like "anyone going to XX school next year may go wash their hands" or "anyone going camping with their family can make a choice".
- Invite children to decorate paper strips and then make a paper chain. Have as many links as children and let 1 child/day cut a link as the end of school comes. The idea is that this ritual makes time, which can be an abstract concept to children, a bit more concrete.
- Ask each child about a favorite experience, and then set out those experiences as part of your curriculum during the last weeks of school.
- Plan a closing event like a family picnic or song sharing/sing-a-long.
- Identify together the skills children have learned about how they adapt to change (like at the start of the year - for example, ways they make new friends by being friendly and asking a child to play, how they know to make a plan for goodbye with parents such as 3 hugs and a kiss).
- Make something together they can wear, such as a crown they decorate, or a tie-dye t-shirt for their last day/celebration. Help them prepare by trying it on so they know how it feels and how to care for it.

CAMBRIDGE PRESCHOOL PROGRAM UPDATES

The Cambridge Preschool Program (currently known as UPK) is a mixed delivery system funded by the city of Cambridge that will provide access to high quality early education and care for all Cambridge 4 year-olds and many 3 year-olds as well!

City of Cambridge Releases New Details About Free Universal Preschool Initiative Cambridge Preschool Program to Launch in the 2024-2025 School Year

Cambridge, MA May 22, 2023 — The City of Cambridge, in partnership with Cambridge Public Schools (CPS), is excited to share new information about Universal Preschool (UPK), which will be known as the Cambridge Preschool Program (CPP).

CPP is a publicly-funded program that will provide free school-day, school-year preschool to every 4-year-old and some 3-year-olds living in Cambridge. Overseen by the Cambridge Office of Early Childhood (OEC), CPP will introduce a single application for families to apply to a variety of preschool settings in Cambridge, including programs at CPS, the City of Cambridge Department of Human Service Programs (DHSP), and community-based programs. Families will have the option of selecting extended day and summer preschool programs for an additional cost.

The CPP universal application will launch this winter for enrollment in the 2024-2025 school year. Cambridge children who will be 4 years old by August 31, 2024 will be eligible to apply, as will children who will turn 3 years old by August 31, 2024 and who meet specific eligibility requirements.

The new universal application will replace CPS's current 3-year-old lottery and Junior Kindergarten Lottery, the City's DHSP Preschool Lottery, and the OEC's scholarship application process. A separate lottery process will be held for Kindergarten enrollment.

The City continues to make significant investments in CPP, including adding key staff members to support the initiative and an allocation of $10 million toward a stabilization fund to help mitigate the budget impact of implementing UPK, which is projected to be approximately $20 million to support City and community programs.

CITY OF CAMBRIDGE RELEASES NEW DETAILS ABOUT FREE UNIVERSAL PRESCHOOL INITIATIVE CAMBRIDGE PRESCHOOL PROGRAM TO LAUNCH IN THE 2024-2025 SCHOOL YEAR

“I am excited to lead this effort in Cambridge, as we aim to be a national model for best practice in building early childhood systems,” said Dr. Lisa Grant, Office of Early Childhood Executive Director. “This model promises to center equity in access, deliver high quality programming, and prioritize early educator compensation and support; with unprecedented funding that will enable programs to deliver on those promises.”

“The City of Cambridge is committed to ensuring that every 4-year-old in Cambridge has access to high-quality education, and we are excited to make universal preschool a reality for our families in Fall 2024,” said Cambridge City Manager Yi-An Huang. “I’m grateful for the partnership of Cambridge Public Schools and the leadership of the Office of Early Childhood in bringing this significant investment in our families – and the future of Cambridge – to fruition.”

“Every child in Cambridge deserves access to preschool regardless of their family’s income status,” said Cambridge Mayor Sumbul Siddiqui. “Universal preschool has been a priority of my office, and for the City Council and School Committee, for many years. I look forward to the lasting impact of universal preschool on our community.”

“Delivering high-quality early learning experiences for our preschool students will be a game-changer for our families, and I am incredibly grateful for the community’s support as we move forward with this historic investment in our young people,” said Cambridge Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Victoria L. JK/K TRANSITION FORMS

Attention all Center Directors, Family Child Care Providers, and Preschool teachers-

Transition Form Time Is Here!

Last month emails were sent out regarding JK/K Transition Forms! Please check your inbox for more information. If you did not receive an email from Liz Barlock, please let us know at ebarlock@cpsd.us

Transition forms connect a child's preschool teacher to the child's Junior Kindergarten or Kindergarten teacher in Cambridge Public Schools. Sharing the child's strengths and needs means that the child is known as an individual before the start of school. This sharing of information will benefit the child, the family, and the educator during this critical transition period. With your help, we hope to reach our goal of having a Transition Form for every child entering Junior Kindergarten or Kindergarten next year.

Forms should be completed by June 15, 2023, for school year-based programs and August 1, 2023, for year-round programs.

If you need help filling out these forms or need technical assistance, please don't hesitate to reach out.

If you have any questions, please reach out to Liz Barlock, School Readiness Manager at ebarlock@cpsd.us.

Fostering Connection & Belonging- Building, sustaining and valuing diversity, equity & inclusion in early childhood programs

Saturday, June 10, 2023

8:00am-3:30pm

Creating equitable learning opportunities is at the core of NAEYC's mission and will be the focus of our Western Massachusetts conference. As put forth in NAEYC's "Advancing Equity in Early Childhood" position statement, addressing structural inequities "requires attention to both interpersonal dynamic-the day-to-day relationships and interactions at the core of early childhood education practice-and systematic influences the uneven distribution of power and privilege inherent in public and private systems nationwide, including in early childhood education."

MAAECY is excited to be hosting the first ever Diversity, Equity & Inclusion (DEI) Panel Discussion! The following distinguished panelists will participate in this discussion: Qinyi (Isabelle) Ren, Gregg Millien, & Rosemary Hernandez. In this 1-hour discussion, panel members will share their thoughts and experiences, relating to DEIB, and will answer questions from the moderators and audience. This rich discussion is an opportunity for meaningful reflection, team building, and embracing relationships. We hope this discussion provides insights into the changing landscape of early childhood spaces, and you leave feeling empowered and energized!

This year we want to acknowledge the people, actions, and practices that get us closer to ensuring all children have a just and equitable early childhood education. We recognize the challenges and will continue strategizing on how best to overcome them, but after five years, we believe it's time to focus on the solutions. How are educators engaging in best practices to support young children? What wins have advocates made to improve systems of early care and education? How can the latest research have a positive impact on our practices? We invite you to join us as we highlight a few examples of what works in early childhood education.
