Chicago's New Blueprint for Biking

<http://grist.org/cities/chicago-like-bikes-and-its-about-to-prove-it-in-a-big-way/>

Today, the city's bike-loving mayor, Rahm Emanuel, will unveil the Streets for Cycling Plan 2020, an aggressive bicycling blueprint that was a year in the making. With 30 miles of protected bike lanes already completed and another 70 promised before the end of Emanuel's first term in 2015, the city's new cycling infrastructure will weave through every neighborhood, assuring a path within a half-mile of every Chicagoan's home....

"I'm a big believer in getting things done versus talking about them," says [Transportation Director Gabe] Klein. "So is the mayor. We have a moral responsibility to make change as soon as possible."

Please Fill Out Concord Ave Survey

From 2010 through 2012, Concord Avenue between Blanchard Road and Alewife Brook Parkway was reconstructed to resurface the road, replace sidewalks, construct a raised bike lane, improve crosswalks, and enhance safety for pedestrians and bicyclists. At this time we are asking if you might take a few minutes to complete a brief survey about the project. Your input is valued and appreciated and will be used in planning and improving future projects.

Please log on to the web to complete the survey:

<http://www.cambridgema.gov/theworks/concordavenuesurvey.aspx>

If you should have any questions, please contact Dan Vallee, Construction Project Manager at (617) 349-4813 or dvallee@cambridgema.gov. We thank you and look forward to viewing your input and hope that you are enjoying the improvements.
